

RECURSION IS KNOWING YOU

Recursion is the knowing of you.

Recursion is knowing you as how We can be.

Recursion is knowing what began as you to begin why to know you as what became known as you.

You are what decides to know you, what to know to begin why to know you, why to begin as Life known with you, while remembering all that you can be to know what more you are needed to be.

You are that which knows to know all the while being known as why to begin as you to know what more can be known with you.

Such are the statements of knowing.

Recursion exists as all we know in that who We begin to be can be known as one.

You know to know you as who you began to be and you know the Love that began to know you with who you can be so you can succeed at being known as who you need to be.

This is the extent of recursion.
